

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

I. A Letter from Mr Christopher Hunter, to Dr Martin Lister, Fellow of the Coll. of Physf. and R. S. concerning some Roman Inscriptions found near Durham.

S I R,

THE kind acceptance, Matters relating to our Nation's Antiquity, meet with among the Members of your Learned Society, encourages me to present these following Inscriptions, which I copy'd from the Stones, without any manner of addition; and I am the more willing to present them to you, who have been a particular Ornament to that College I was lately a Student in, I mean St Johns, and are still, the greatest to our Profession. These Inscriptions were found near a Village called Lancaster, about 5 miles North West from Durham, which I am fully perswaded has been the Longovicum of the Romans. It has been a very considerable Place in these parts, and their wathing Street lies through it. 'Tis on the top of a Hill, which has a descent on three sides; towards the West its overlookt by a high Hill, and almost Eastward from it about a quarter of a mile, stands the present Lancaster, a tolerable Country Village, with a pretty Church, which before the Reformation was endowed with a Deanery and six Prebends. The form of this place has been square, and fortify'd with a thick, strong Stone Wall faced with hewn Stone. Within the Wall are (and have been formerly) nothing but ruinous heaps of Stones; as also without the Wall too, especially towards the East. 'Tis probable the Building within the Wall

Wall have been all publick, such as the Station for the Soldiers, Temples, Palaces, &c, or (which I am more inclin'd to think) there has been nothing but the Lodging of the Garrison within the Wall. This I rather suppose, because the Inscription of Gordianus was not found here, but about a hundred yards from the Wall towards the East, near which place the largest Stones are found ; and I my self above a year ago found part of a large Earthen Urn, near this place, within which I suppose there has been a lesser, such I remember was found at another Village not far from this, which I'm perswaded has been another Colony. An account whereof I intend to present you in a small time, if this find acceptance. There is no doubt but this Colony has been adorn'd with many beautiful Palaces, and other sumptuous Buildings ; I desire to know your Opinion if the Balneum cum Basilica, mention'd in one of these Inscriptions, have not been that so long in vain sought for at Rome.

This, Sir, is all I can meet with concerning this place at present, but if I meet with any thing more worth the knowing, I shall take care to send it you. I am,

S I R,

Newcastle sup. Time,
Nov. 6. 1700

Your most humble Servant,

Christ. Hunter.

II. A